

Laura Ernst

Fear of Falling

Laura Ernst empowers audiences to free themselves and reach beyond their perceived limits- and she does it with visual aids that will put a PowerPoint presentation to shame!

If your group has ever been afraid to finish – or even take the first step towards playing bigger – they will see themselves and a myriad of solutions during this dynamic keynote presentation. If your audience has ever talked themselves into a decision just because it was easier, they will think twice before doing that again. Laura will give them plenty of reasons to reach higher in their creative and professional aspirations.

Here are just a couple of unforgettable themes the audience will take away.

Burst your bubble and get out of your comfort zone
Bringing “flow” into your work and fulfillment along with it
Using mistakes as steps to success
Let go and trust yourself

“She was the highlight of the event!”

“A big hit. One of the best acts we have ever hired.”

Don't Just Say it. Show it

Imagine a speaker that brings her lessons to life with a human-sized hamster ball, acrobatics and death-defying stunts. It doesn't get any more memorable than that.

More than a speech, this keynote presentation includes beautiful acrobatic stunts performed over 25-feet in the air on aerial fabric. Her audience leaves both inspired and engaged with real strategies to turn resistance into fulfilling accomplishment.

Laura brings her personal story of struggle, from living in her car to performing all over the world. She has transformed her personal tragedies and obstacles into a speech that inspires audiences to reach higher, faster, and further in all aspects of life.
